Loyalty is rewarded

THE loyalty of nine Australian Hardboards' employees was recognised last Thursday night at a special presentation.

The Bundamba-based building product manufacturer hosted its annual milestone dinner at Brothers Leagues Club.

Five employees were honoured for 20 years' service to the company, while two were awarded for 25 years, and two for 30 years.

Executive chairman Louis Niederer said the business had been part of Ipswich's fabric for 50 years.

He said the event enabled Australian Hardboards to honour those who had contributed to the company over a significant period of that time.

Training co-ordinator Brian Davies was employed as a live deck to sort logs at the business 25 years ago. In his current role, he said he was "giving back what the last generation gave me".
